

Footsteps of the Queen

Politically and geographically isolated—and often neglected for lack of oil resources—this Middle Eastern country feels to visitors like something out of a history book. People living in this region of the world are kind and hospitable. Unfortunately, most have never heard the name of Jesus, nor have they met someone who claims to follow Him.

Come help us as we partner with local organizations and individuals in reaching out to the people of this fascinating land. We'll interact with them as we teach a number of subjects including conversational English and computer skills. You do not have to be a professional teacher to participate. If you speak proficient English and are willing to invest two weeks of your year to make an eternal difference in the lives of people, we want you! However, because of the sensitive nature of ministry in this country, participation in a prior JESUS Film Mission Trip or other qualifying trip is preferred. Please contact the trip leader for more information.
